Dear Parents and Carers

Thank you for all your support and patience last week as we began to educate our young people remotely. We have learnt an awful lot since last Monday and have reviewed our practises accordingly. I would like to apologise for any undue anxiety that may have been caused if you have received 'lack of engagement in remote learning' notifications. Be assured that these will not count as negative behaviours and we will look to engage with both your children and yourselves more supportively where we have concerns. We are entering a new level partnership with you now as we expect our students to work at home independently and will need to work together to ensure that they are safe, happy and, as much as possible, continue their education.

New Website

You may have noticed last week that our new website went live so, if you have not already, please take a look; it uses the same web address as before: www.trinity.nottingham.sch.uk. There are many news stories and some updated information that we have been unable to share up to this point. It was created Fifteen Design which is a global marketing and design company set up by one of our ex-students Ollie Piddubriwnyj. We have also launched our school Twitter and Facebook accounts which can be found at twitter.com/TTCSNottingham and facebook.com/TTCSNottingham.

Easter Holidays

Please be aware that we break up for Easter on Friday and for the following two weeks teachers will not be expected to be working so please refrain from contacting them whilst they take a well-deserved break (although they won't be going anywhere).

Year 9 Options

Information about year 9 options will be going out this Friday.

Awarding of Examination Grades

We are still awaiting news of how GCSE and A Level grades will be awarded and as soon as we know we will be in touch. We are still getting enquiries and requests from parents and students in terms of this process and, as frustrating as it is for everyone, we can only be patient at this stage.

I wish you and your families the best of health during this most difficult time and wish to share this prayer with you:

*Merciful God,
Come to the help of your people.
Be our shelter in this time of peril and strengthen the bonds of our community.
Bring healing to all who suffer the ravages of illness and disease and assist those whose skill and art can put an end to this affliction.
Through Christ our Lord.
Amen.
Our Lady, Help of the Sick...pray for us.*

Have a safe and happy Easter everyone.

Yours faithfully

Mr Shenton
